

Nano Art is a new discipline that discovers and accentuates the artistic beauty of nanometer sized natural and artificial structures.

<https://moonkim.org/vng>

AI Stylized Nano Art seamlessly combines the essence of content with the brushstrokes of style images using convolutional neural networks (CNNs), resulting in captivating visual compositions that blend subject matter with artistic flair.

<https://moonkim.org/aistyle>

Nano Art In Motion showcases the dynamic fusion of Nano Art with meticulously choreographed dance movements. Through a bespoke of Augmented Reality (AR) app, smartphone users can vividly experience this captivating synergy.

<https://moonkim.org/inmotion>

How to View

To fully immerse yourself in this experience, please scan the QR code below using your Android device to download and use the NanoArtInMotion app.

Have fun and enjoy the experience! If you encounter any issues, please don't hesitate to ask the exhibit staff for assistance.

Choreography & Dance

Aaron D'Eramo

Aaron D. earned his B.F.A. in Dance Performance and B.A. in Anthropology from Southern Methodist University in May 2019 on the Meadows Artistic Scholarship. Aaron's performance career includes work with Bruce Wood Dance Company, Ballet Dallas, Dallas Neoclassical Ballet, Tyler Junior College, and more.

Producers

Sun Esther Kim
Aaron A. Klick
Aaron J.R. D'Eramo

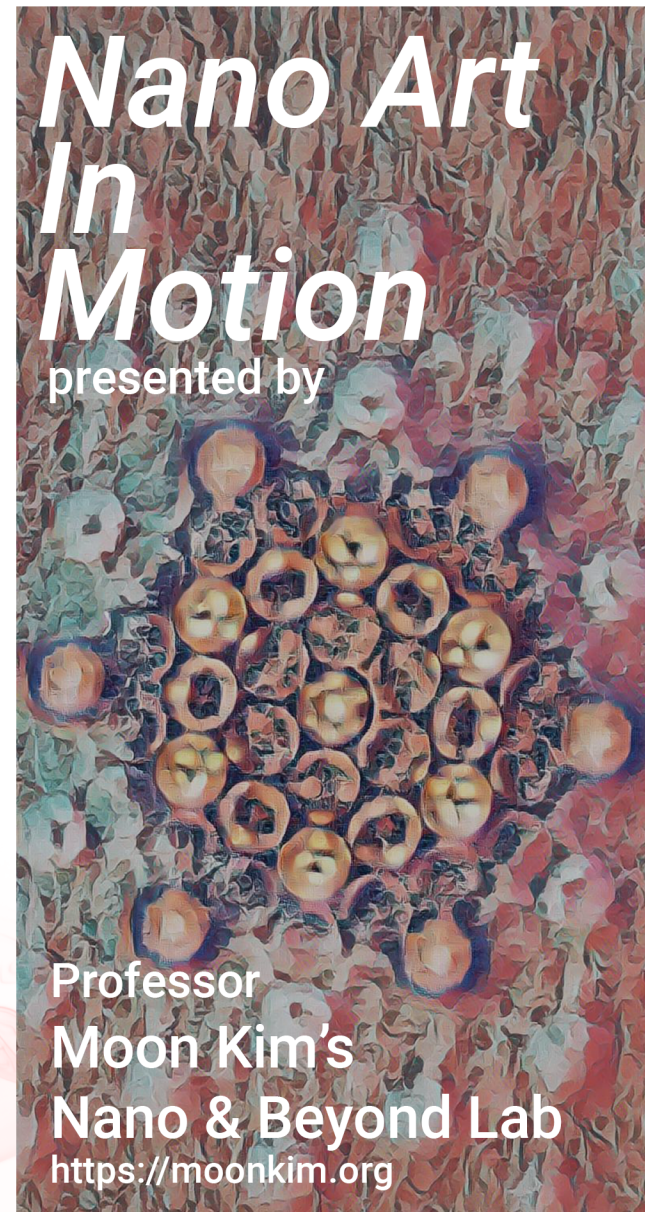

Nano Art Contributors

S.H. Lee
Qingxiao Wang
Juan P. Oviedo

Intern & Others

Soomin Nam

Thank you to the Henry W. Bass Jr. School of Arts, Humanities, and Technology and the Motion Capture Studio team for their support and collaboration throughout this process.

May 1, 2024

10am - 5pm

ECSW Axxess Atrium

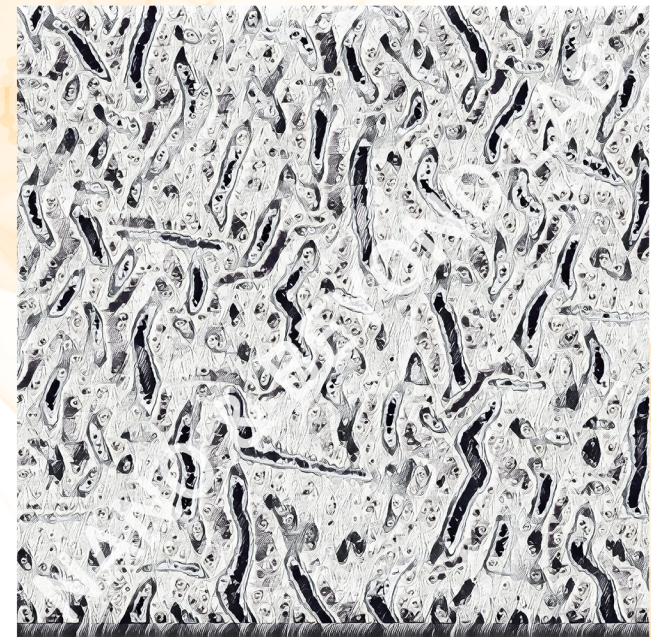

Artic Tundra, 1991

Music: Ave Maria, Schubert
AI Style (Vincent van Gogh - Sunflowers)

Flowers in Snow, 2016

Music: A Dance Among the Graves, John Abbott
AI Style (Kandinsky - Transverse Line)

Caterpillars, 2011

Music: Fragments of a Homeland, Jon Björk
AI Style (Various Comic Strips Ink Collage)

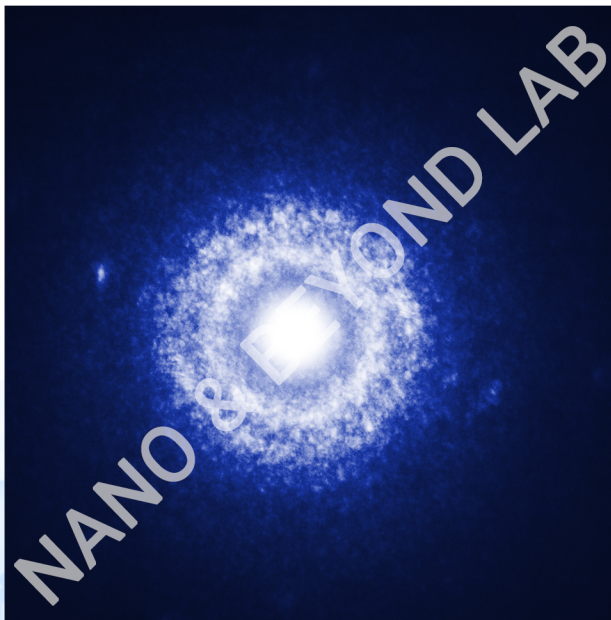

Tiger, 1992

Music: Marche Slave, Op. 31, Tchaikovsky

A-Mo 0340, 1993

Music: Quartet Pizzicato, Trevor Kawalski

Solar Flare, 2015

Music: Summer Waltz, Tommy Andersson

